

So, you deleted the file? Or formatted the wrong disk? Or the drive disappeared altogether? Well, it does not have to be all lost yet! First, do not attempt to use the computer and do not write to the external disk anymore! Any activity could overwrite the data that are still possibly intact! Turn it OFF and gather maximum information on what data you need back. Then search who can retrieve the data for you. When you get scared by all the prices out there, come back here, and contact me .
